Company Profile

dmedia is a newly independent Turnkey solution company with a twenty-year history of providing engineers and designers with Turnkey solution and software that deliver better experiences for mobile communications, consumer electronics, security applications, contact less payment and connectivity, and in-car entertainment and networking.

WiMAX enjoys widespread support throughout the industry, as it allows highly innovative applications to emerge from anywhere in the world. dmedia's business architecture will allow service providers to seamlessly move content, applications and services across next-generation networks and devices with great efficiency. Applications such as voice, video streaming and online gaming will work significantly better, and WiMAX provides an effective platform for broadcast, on-demand and interactive video applications.

With WiMAX providing the connections, service providers can offer customers a host of rich applications: mobile TV, video telephony, real time trading, location-based services. The possibilities are tremendous and the opportunity is exceptional.
