

Company Profile

Delta Networks, Inc. is an industry-leading original design manufacturer of network communications equipment. Once the Network Business Unit of Delta Electronics, Delta Networks has been in operation since 1989. Delta Networks became formally incorporated in 1999 as an independent company with sales offices worldwide in addition to R&D development center and manufacturing plants in Taiwan and mainland China.

Today, Delta Networks is an ODM/OEM powerhouse with over 2,600 employees and more than 1 million square feet of manufacturing space. By the end of 2008, annual sales revenue has reached more than 400 million US dollars.

The engineering staff, which numbers more than 350, has developed a rich product portfolio that ranges from enterprise/telco grade Ethernet switches to home/broadband networking equipment. This diverse engineering know-how has earned the respect of many top-tier industry players and enables us to deliver unsurpassed value to our partners. In addition, our close-knit network of regional sales offices and service centers enables our sales and service personnel to work closely with our partners and gain first-hand understanding of their needs, so that partners' expectations may be met in a timely manner. Our corporate vision is to provide our partners with cost-effective products that are superior in quality and reliability. Leveraging our advanced engineering and service capabilities, we are confident that we can satisfy the end-customer's demand for diverse and innovative networking products and help our partners succeed in the fast-changing marketplace.
